Use of 'cookies'

Like many other websites, we use cookies. We use them to help you personalise your online experience. A cookie is a text file that is placed on your hard disk by a web page server which allows the website to recognise you when you visit. Cookies only collect data about browsing actions and patterns, and do not identify you as an individual.

We use cookies for the following purposes:

Authentication, personalisation and security: cookies help us verify your account and device and determine when you log in, so we can make it easier for you to access the services and provide the appropriate experiences and features. We also use cookies to help prevent fraudulent use of log-in credentials.

Performance and analytics: cookies help us analyse how the services are being accessed and used, and enable us to track the performance of the services. For example, we use cookies to determine if you viewed a page or opened an email. This helps us provide you with information that you find interesting. We also use cookies to provide insights regarding your End Users and your sites' performance, such as page views, conversion rates, device information, visitor IP addresses and referral sites.

Third Parties: third party services may use cookies to help you sign into their services from our services. We also may use third party cookies, such as Google Analytics, to assist with analysing performance. Any third party cookie usage is governed by the privacy policy of the third party placing the cookie.

Opting Out: You can set your browser to not accept cookies but this may limit your ability to use the services.

Our website may contain links to other websites. Please note that we have no control over how your data is collected, stored or used by such other websites and we advise you to check the privacy policies of any such websites before providing any data to them.

What happens if our business changes hands?

We may, from time to time, expand or reduce our business and this may involve the sale and/or the transfer of control of all or part of our business. Any personal data that you have provided will, where it is relevant to any part of our business that is being transferred, be transferred along with that part. The new owner or newly controlling party will, under the terms of this Privacy Policy, be permitted to use that data only for the same purposes for which it was originally collected by us.

We may share your information (such as meal or seating preferences and special occasions) with other restaurants in within our group. This is to enhance the hospitality experience or provide you with a "customised service" when you visit us (such as, trying to seat you by a window if you previously expressed a preference for window seating at one of our sites) as well as to improve our table and shift planning.

In addition to providing you with a more customised service, we may, as permitted by applicable law, share your information with our restaurant affiliates to support operations, perform analytics, tailor marketing to you, support a loyalty program that you have chosen to participate in and/or improve our services.

For more information, please feel free to contact the restaurants by email.
